									Supervisor(s) Dr Wayne Douglas Hutchison, Professor John Michael Cadogan
									If you have been offered admission into a Master of Philosophy program, you will be required to complete a coursework component first as per program structure, which comprise three or four courses selected from the Coursework Masters offerings for the relevant disciplines, before you can commence the research component. For this you must arrive on campus and enrol in coursework courses before the commencement of relevant semester. Please refer to online UNSW Handbook and check with relevant school for further details. Research program study periods are based on two semesters per year of 24 weeks duration and 2 weeks annual leave. Annual leave can be taken at any time in your candidature in consultation with your supervisor. Please Note: Your continued enrolment in this research program will be contingent on the satisfactory outcome of review processes conducted within the first 12 months of enrolment and thereafter on a regular basis. The format of the review varies according to the procedures adopted by the Faculty in which the student is enrolled. The review may involve requiring the student to present a seminar on the research proposal to academic staff and other students or to submit a comprehensive report on the proposed research to the supervisor and other academic staff from the discipline area. The purpose of the reviews is to assess the progress achieved by the student and to contribute to a rewarding and productive research environment. Students should be aware that as a result of the review, the Faculty committee that monitors student progress, may determine appropriate and supportive remedial action. In cases where progress remains unsatisfactory your enrolment will be terminated.
