Australia Awards Short Course Building Cyber Resilience: Managing Risks and Leveraging Opportunities

Australia Awards in Indonesia invites applications for a short course on Building Cyber Resilience: Managing Risks and Leveraging Opportunities. The course provides policy makers and practitioners with insights into the latest developments and trends in the cyber threat landscape as well as Australia's cyber settings. It provides an opportunity for both Australia and Indonesia to build networks within and across a breadth of organisations with a role in cyber.

The course helps participants to:

- identify latest developments and trends in the cyber threat landscape
- develop knowledge and tools to improve cyber resilience, including cyber incident response and management
- examine Australia's cyber strategy, policy and operational settings
- explore the roles and responsibilities of Australia's policy, operational and technical agencies
- examine approaches to supporting resilient critical infrastructure from cyber threats
- examine approaches to protecting data from cyber threats
- examine approaches to combating cybercrime and cyber terrorism
- explore approaches to managing online harms, including in the context of online gambling and Australia's social media reforms
- examine responses to upholding international law and norms of responsible state behaviour in cyberspace
- explore the role of the private sector and public-private partnerships in responding to cyber threats, including through engagement with private companies
- explore approaches to raising cyber security awareness, including in the community
- build networks within and across a breadth of government agencies with a role in cyber
- identify collaboration opportunities between Indonesian and Australian stakeholders, including engagement with higher education institutions with cyber security offerings at their Indonesian campuses

The course will be delivered over 2 weeks in Australia in September or October 2025. A 3-day pre-course workshop will be held in Indonesia in August 2025. A post-course workshop will be held in Indonesia in January or February 2026.
