

Alumni Outcomes Survey Results Short Course

Alumni, including equity target groups

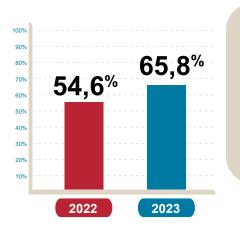

Reported enhanced soft skills from their awards

Pre-COVID, Indonesia lacked sign language interpreters exacerbating barriers for deaf individuals. Mohammad Ismail, an Australia Awards alumnus, launched a project to enhance interpreter capacity in Yogyakarta, promoting inclusion and advocating for professional standards.

Showcased leadership empowerment

Dante Rigmalia, nominated to lead Indonesia's National Commission on Disabilities, attended an AAI Short Course on policy reform for inclusive development. It facilitated networking and aligned with her mission against disability stigma.

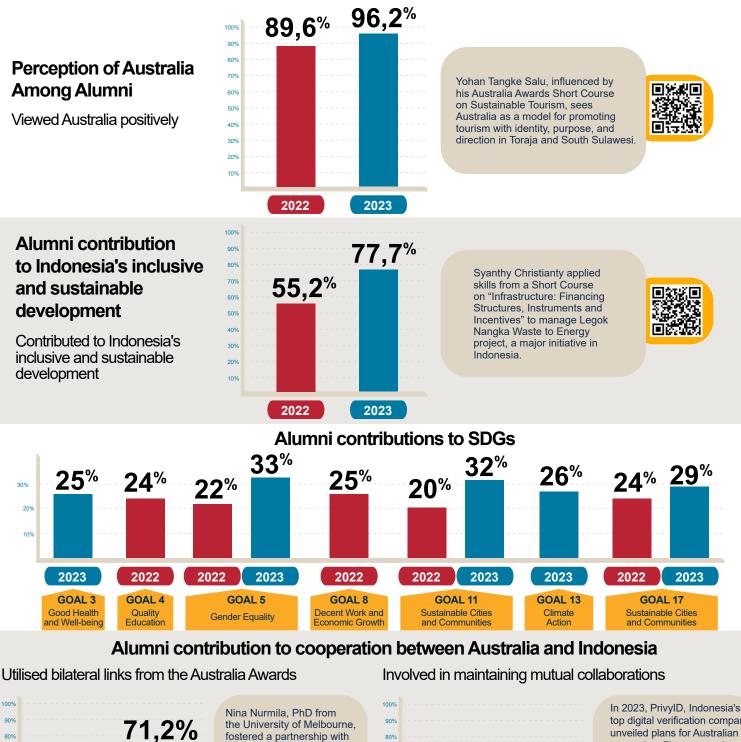

Source:

Australia Awards Annual Survey 2022 and 2023, targeting alumni who returned one year before the survey 2022: 240 alumni population, 73% response rate, 95% confidence level and 4% error 2023: 293 alumni population, 63% response rate, 95% confidence level and 4% error

Alumni Outcomes Survey Results Short Course

80%

70%

60%

50%

40%

30%

20%

10%

top digital verification company, unveiled plans for Australian expansion. Five years prior, CEO Marshall Pribadi's participation in a Flinders University Start-up Ecosystem Short Course was pivotal for market validation

25,5%

2023

17,2%

2022

Source:

80%

60%

50%

40%

20%

10%

52,9%

2022

2023

Australia Awards Annual Survey 2022 and 2023, targeting alumni who returned one year before the survey 2022: 240 alumni population, 73% response rate, 95% confidence level and 4% error 2023: 293 alumni population, 63% response rate, 95% confidence level and 4% error

fostered a partnership with

Deakin University during a

Short Course, As Dean of Education, her efforts led to asigned Memorandum of Understanding in

May 2023